

Jim Wilson

Current Position: Head Men's and Women's Swimming Coach
 Dartmouth College

Dartmouth College head coach Jim Wilson is in his 18th season as coach of the men's and sixth season as the women's swimming team. Both teams have improved greatly during the past few years. Wilson joined the Big Green athletic department in 1993, coming to Hanover from the University of Utah.

Wilson's first collegiate coaching job was as an assistant at Utah from 1977-87. He was promoted to head coach of the women's team in 1987 before assuming head coaching duties of both the men's and women's teams in 1990. Wilson's men's team won the Western Athletic Conference title in each of his three years at the helm. He also earned individual recognition as the University of Utah Coach of the Year in 1992 and the WAC Coach of the Year in 1993. Wilson coached both Utah teams until 1993, when he came to Dartmouth.

Besides college coaching, Wilson coached Anaheim Aquatics (1978) and the Hong Kong national team (1979) and was the director of the Utah Summer Swim Camp (1982-93).

A 1977 graduate from Utah, where he was an All-America swimmer, Wilson earned a bachelor's degree in telecommunications before earning another bachelor's in exercise and sport science in 1980.
